REFERENSI AYAT AI-QUR'AN

إِنْ يَمْسَسْكُمْ قَرْحٌ فَقَدْ مَسَّ الْقَوْمَ قَرْحٌ مِّثْلُهُ وَتِلْكَ الْأَيَّامُ
نَدَاوَلَهَا بَيْنَ النَّاسِ وَلِيَعْلَمَ اللَّهُ الَّذِينَ آمَنُوا وَيَتَّخِذَ مِنْكُمْ
-شُهَدَاءَ وَاللَّهُ لَا يُحِبُّ الظَّالِمِينَ - ١٤٠ yang artinya: "Jika kamu (pada Perang Uhud) mendapat luka, maka mereka pun (pada Perang Badr) mendapat luka yang serupa. Dan masa (kejayaan dan kehancuran) itu, Kami Pergilirkan di antara manusia (agar mereka mendapat pelajaran), dan agar Allah Membedakan orang-orang yang beriman (dengan orang-orang kafir) dan agar sebagian kamu Dijadikan-Nya (gugur sebagai) syuhada. Dan Allah tidak menyukai orang-orang zalim,"

(Ali Imran 3:140)

Asal Muasal mulainya “The Arab Spring”

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Mohamed_Bouazizi

Tarek al-Tayeb Mohamed Bouazizi (Arabic: محمد البوعزيزي; 29 March 1984 – 4 January 2011) was a Tunisian street vendor who set himself on fire on 17 December 2010, in protest of the confiscation of his wares and the harassment and humiliation that he reported was inflicted on him by a municipal official and her aides. His act became a catalyst for the Tunisian Revolution[2] and the wider Arab Spring, inciting demonstrations and riots throughout Tunisia in protest of social and political issues in the country. The public's anger and violence intensified following Bouazizi's death, leading then-President Zine El Abidine Ben Ali to step down on 14 January 2011, after 23 years in power.

The success of the Tunisian protests inspired protests in several other Arab countries, plus several non-Arab countries. The protests included several men who emulated Bouazizi's act of self-immolation, in an attempt to bring an end to their own autocratic governments. Those men and Bouazizi were hailed by Arab commentators as "heroic martyrs of a new Middle Eastern revolution." [3]

In 2011, Bouazizi was posthumously awarded the Sakharov Prize jointly along with four others for his and their contributions to "historic changes in the Arab world". [4] The Tunisian government honored him with a postage stamp. [5] The Times of the United Kingdom named Bouazizi as person of the year 2011. [6] [7]
